

Note on Contributors

Liz Greene is a tutor at the University of Wales, Lampeter, where she lectures on the MA in Cultural Astronomy and Astrology. She is an analytical psychologist and a member of the Association of Jungian Analysts, the International Association for Analytical Psychology, and the UK Council for Psychotherapy. Founder and director of the Centre for Psychological Astrology in London, she has pioneered the integration of Jungian psychology and contemporary astrology. She is currently studying in the PhD programme of the Department of Historical Studies at the University of Bristol, researching Kabbalistic ideas in the nineteenth century 'occult revival', and is the author of numerous books on astrological and psychological themes.

l.greene@lamp.ac.uk

Jarita Holbrook is an assistant professor in the Bureau of Applied Research in Anthropology, at the University of Arizona. She hails from the West coast of the United States having lived in California for most of her life. She holds advanced degrees in astronomy, astrophysics, and physics. She is an expert on the cultural astronomy of Africans and contemporary cultures who navigate by the stars. She is actively helping to identify sites in Africa suitable for nomination to the UNESCO World Heritage Site List under the Astronomy & World Heritage initiative. Her project on American astronomers studies their changing relationship to the night sky. She is currently working to establish a field school in cultural astronomy to train undergraduate and graduate students.

holbrook@u.arizona.edu

James Maffie is Research Fellow in the Latin American Studies Center at the University of Maryland, and Associate Professor in the Department of Philosophy, Colorado State University, Fort Collins. He is currently writing a book exploring Aztec metaphysics.

maffiej@umd.edu